

HELLBOUND COMICS

issue #2

©Hellbound Comics 2005. All rights reserved. No part of this image is to be reproduced.

Brian Dell Matt Cerovich Daniel Holland

They lied to me.

They thought I was going to steal their "treasure," so they took what they wanted and buried me with this box.

And they were right; I would have stolen their damned riches and buried them all if they hadn't stabbed me in the back first.

Now, I think I'm dying. I was so bored that I started playing with this box to keep my mind off the gnawing in my gut. Only a few hours ago did I start hearing music, and damn if this isn't the brightest light I've ever seen... I'm either completely insane, dead and going to heaven... or...

Nevermind. I'm definitely insane.

FROM THE DARKET HOLE

story: Brian Dell interior art: Matt Cerovich cover art: Daniel Holland

SO HE OPENED THE CHAMBER. INTERESTING.

"Interesting?" I led those bozos to the chamber, all Carlisle did was open the door. I don't see what's so...

NEVER MIND THAT FOR NOW. CONTINUE WITH YOUR RECOLLECTIONS.

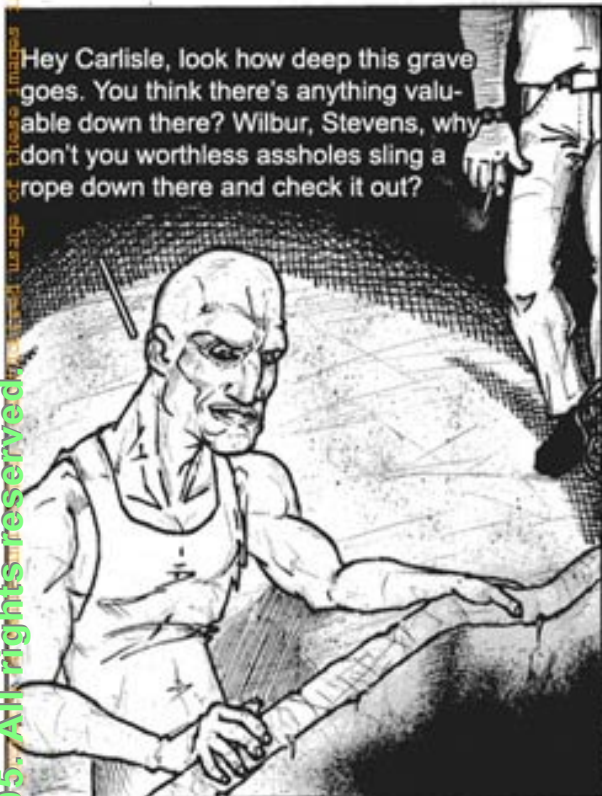

So what do you make of this thing, Carlisle?

To his grave, heh.

Don't touch it. This is the only treasure that fool Tennent will take with him.

Hey Carlisle, look how deep this grave goes. You think there's anything valuable down there? Wilbur, Stevens, why don't you worthless assholes sling a rope down there and check it out?

Why don't you check it out?

No, I don't think s...

So that's how they screwed me out of my cut. Are you... things... going to help me get out of here or what?

OH YES. YOU OPENED THE BOX. WE'LL HELP YOU.

JUST DON'T FIGHT US, OR YOUR CHANGE WILL HURT EVEN MORE

©Hellbound Comics 2005. All rights reserved.

HELLBOUND COMICS

www.consteast.com/hbc